APPENDIX 1 [2010 :this historical text remains unchanged and will be always part of any updated Statutes, published together with it]

«TEXT presented by Tatiana Slama-Cazacu and Renzo Titone (1982), organizers of The First International Conference of the AILA Commission on Psycholinguistics, concerning the foundation of the INTERNATIONAL SOCIETY OF APPLIED PSYCHOLINGUISTICS, ISAPL (Milan, November 1, 1982).

The organizers of The First International Conference of the AILA Commission on Psycholinguistics, held in MILAN, 1- 3 November, 1982, Prof. T. Slama-Cazacu and Prof. R. Titone, who are also respectively the President and a Vice-President of the AILA Commission on Psycholinguistics, present the following text to the attendance of this Conference:

We have considered, as promoters of both scientific activity in Applied Psycholinguistics and in the AILA Commission on Psycholinguistics, that an international association of applied psycholinguistics can be organized today.

The AILA Commission on Psycholinguistics has been a first and useful step toward encouraging research, connections, international meetings and publications in the field, and will continue its activity along the same lines. However, the development of applied psycholinguistics and the present Conference have proven that it is possible and necessary to create an International Association in this field, which will have the following principal aims:

1. to stimulate and promote the activity in the domains of teaching psycholinguistics and applied psycholinguistics, of research and publications in these fields;
2. to strengthen the contacts and exchange opportunities in the fields;
3. to organize future international meetings with a view to eventually developing even comprehensive congresses, etc.

We shall base our activity on an enlarged concept of “Applied Psycholinguistics”, which takes into account not only the field of language and teaching but also other areas such as speech disorders, aspects of mass communication media, interpersonal communication in various social activities (as interaction in labor and classroom contexts, etc.). Participants may offer further suggestions with regard to the objectives of this association.

A first draft of the Association statutes will be written out by T. Slama-Cazacu and R. Titone, and will be submitted for suggestions and approval to the founding committee of ISAPL.

A Founding Committee has supported and prepared this initiative and agreed to nominate the following officials to serve during a transitional period of three years, Those participants in favor of the proposals made above will also be considered as Founding Members of the ISAPL and are asked to write their names and addresses on the founding act of the Association.

Prof. T. Slama-Cazacu, Prof. R. Titone [Roma-Milano, 1982]».

APPENDIX 2 [2010 :this historical text remains unchanged and will be always part of any updated Statutes, published together with it]

«MEMBERS OF FOUNDING COMMITTEE (FC, elected in Milano, 1982):

President: Tatiana Slama-Cazacu (Romania); Vice-Presidents: Renzo Titone (Italy); Els Oksaar (West Germany); Wilga Rivers (USA); A.A. Leontjev (USSR); Secretary General: Hans W. Dechert (West Germany); Treasurer: Miguel Siguan Soler (Spain). Members: J.Bronckart (Switzerland); D. Bruce (Great Britain); J. Kess (Canada); J. Prucha (Czechoslovakia); L. The draft of the Statutes was presented by T. Slama-Cazacu to R.
