

SUMMARY

In memoriam Galina F. BlagovaMaria Amelina, Yulia Normanskaya.* History of the protolanguage names of clothes and footwear in Nenets

The article deals with the features of the traditional Nenets clothes, footwear and their details the names of which came to Nenets from the protolanguage. The attempt to define the differences between the Nenets subjects, described by these words, and the Proto-Samoyedic subjects by means of a method of semantic reconstruction is made in the article.

Keywords: Nenets, the Proto-Samoyedic language, traditional clothes, traditional footwear, semantic reconstruction, etymology, borrowing

Anna Loktionova.* Selkup ethnographic collections in the museums of the Tomsk region: history of collecting and research, collections' composition

The article deals with the analysis of the collections in the museums of Tomsk and the Tomsk region, the collections characterizing Selkup culture. The article also deals with the history of their formation and the quantitative characteristics of the gathering and storing processes of Selkup traditional phenomena.

Keywords: ethnographic museum collections, Selkups, museums of the Tomsk region, ethnographic gathering, material culture, spiritual culture

Arzhana Majzina.* Phraseological units with colour components kara 'black' and kyzyl 'red' characterizing physiological states of a person in the Altai language

The article deals with the study of phraseological units containing colour names kara 'black' and kyzyl 'red' and characterizing physiological state of a person in the Altai language according to the linguistic and culturological approaches. The article gives the analysis of a constituent role of colour naming when representing various human functional senses and states.

Keywords: the Altai language, colour naming, linguoculturology, concept, phraseological unit

Natalia Pushkareva (Sajnakova).* On history of the Selkup family Sychins

The article is devoted to the reconstruction of the history of the Selkup family Sychins. The family is famous among linguists and ethnographers mostly due to speaking the Shoshkup dialect. The archive material from 1870—1981 (birth certificates and household books) was used for the article. As a result of the research 19 branches of the Sychins were found living in Ivankino from the end of the XIXth to the beginning of the XXth century. The attempt to form genealogy for different branches of the family, versions of the origin of the family and appearance of its first representatives in the district near the Middle Ob were made in the article.

Keywords: Selkups, Ob Shoshkups, the Selkup language, the Middle Ob (Ivankinski) dialect, genealogy, the Sychins

Rosa Tadinova.* Adaptation of the Turkic front labial vowel phoneme ɣ /ü/ in the Dagestani languages

The article presents an attempt to systematize the phonetic changes of vowel ɣ (front labial vowel /ü/) in the Turkic words loaned to the North Caucasian languages. The recording and analysis of the reflections of the Turkic phonemes in each of the Caucasian languages or the related language groups reveals a complex picture. It turns out that information about the phonetic adaptation makes possible to single out the vocabulary borrowed from various Turkic sources in almost every language.

Keywords: phonetic adaptation, the Turkic languages, the North Caucasian languages, vowel system, phoneme

László Honti.* On the origins of paired verbs (serial verbs) in the Finno-Ugric languages of the Volga-Kama region

Constructions with serial verbs (verb pairs, pair-verbs, paired verbs) in the Finno-Ugric languages of the Volga-Kama region (in comparison with ones in the Samoyedic languages) are dealt with in the article. The author proves the point of view about independent and spontaneous development of serial verbs in the Uralic languages, also favoured by contacts with the Turkic languages.

Keywords: serial verbs (verb pairs, pair-verbs, paired verbs), serial verb constructions, language contacts, the Finno-Ugric languages, the Samoyedic languages

DISCUSSIONS

Vadim Ponaryadov. Reflection of the Proto-Permic final vowels of the second syllable in Erzya

The article investigates the development of Proto-Finno-Permic final vowels in the Erzya language. It is demonstrated that disappearance of the etymological final **a* occurs only after **a* of the first syllable, and dropping of the etymological final **ä* is found only after **ä* and **ü*. The etymological final **i* partially disappears after **o*, **u*, **ä*, **e*, **i* and **ü*, i. e. after all vowels of the first syllable except **a*.

Keywords: the Erzya language, the Mordvin languages, Proto-Finno-Permic, vowels, reflection

Mikhail Zhivlov. On the Erzyan vocalism of the second syllable

The author of the article notes the importance of the problem, that Vadim Ponaryadov deals with in the article “Reflection of the Proto-Permic final vowels of the second syllable in Erzya”. The author also pays attention to general and particular disadvantages of this work.

Keywords: the Erzya language, the Mordvin languages, Proto-Finno-Permic, vowels, reflection

PERSONALIA

Igor Kormushin. Boris I. Tatarincev (October 1939 — January 2011)

REVIEWS

Dmitry Funk. Modern olonkhosoots' Olonkho: about preservation and publication problems of epic texts. Tomskaya D. A. Үчүгэй Үөдүгүйээн, Куһаҕан Ходьугур [Yuchuugey Yudyuguyuen, Kusagan Khodzhugur]